What is AUDiD?

AUDiD - Adults, Data, and emerging Identities - is a European project for adult education co-funded by the Erasmus plus programme. This project on online identities kicked off in November 2018 in Rijeka. The project will last two years, and the objective is to empower adults to deal effectively with issues associated to online identities, cryptocurrencies and e-wallets.

Why AUDiD?

The digital world opens opportunities for all, but what about social exclusion, fraud and other online problems? Many people lack the skills, confidence or opportunities of digital technologies to the full.

Adults today spend plenty of time online while this is expected to increase as Smartphones are used by a growing number of adult population. However, adult users are

On 9th November 2018, the kick-off meeting took place in Rijeka (Croatia) hosted by PAR University College at its premises.

What is going to be developed?

AUDID will develop a toolkit to:

- An interactive curriculum and a pedagogical approach to enhance critical thinking, complemented by easy to use tools (i.e. a dynamic demonstrator) that will enhance understanding on the subject and recognize skills and achievements through the Open Badges concept (openbadges.org).
- A virtual Academy space, a single entry point to all the exposed to dangers when online because of not being able to fully comprehend how random data they make public can manifest into the building blocks of an online identity.

Adults, especially those aged 55 or older, should learn to appreciate the relevance of data, both data they provide and data they receive.

They should learn how to validate incoming data and evaluate when to provide and validate outgoing data.

Crucially, they should understand the relationship between validated data and identity.

On 22nd May 2019, the 2^o transnational meeting took place in Milan (Italy), hosted by European Digital Learning Network.
